“ Diane and Karen, Wayne and I are so sorry for your loss of your dad. He lived to be a ripe old age, but it still is difficult. Wayne and I both remember Bill's sense of humor and kindness. He tolerated basketball games on the driveway until all hours of the night and kindly would let the guys know when it was time to move on. I remember how he and your mom would welcome a gaggle of teenage girls into their home and share our laughter and sorrow, and provide some common sense advice--without sounding like it was advice. We miss both of them. We miss you. Love you, Wayne and Carol Holdcroft
