“ Bob Staggs was a good friend of mine. We lived in the same neighborhood growing up in Kennett, Mo. We didn't have many material things back then and hunger was often our companion, but we enjoyed life back in those day's. We often travelled in a foursome with his brother, Cletus, and my brother, Ted. We all enjoyed swimming down at #19 drainage ditch and climbing tall trees looking for berries. Bob was the kind of friend who was there during the tough times. I counted him as one of the best. I pray that he is up in heaven now, waiting for the Fields brothers to arrive and go for another fun swim in the cool waters of some crystal clear stream. I'll always be grateful I knew you, Bob. I miss you often. God bless you richly old buddy.

I'll always remember the 4 if us playing basketball together in our backyard in Kennett and caddying at the golf course circa 1959, before the era if golf carts. There was never more fun than burrowing tunnels in the nearby Wheatfield or catching tadpoles in the side ditch between the 5th hole and tge Airport. We lived and respected you Bibby. Still do. Hope we all get to play again one day! Ted Fields
