“ I hadn't seen him in yrs but we hung out together when I lived in my basement apartment on Henderson st. He was always full of energy when it came to helping a friend. He could catch you at a dark moment for you and within moments have you feeling good again. He would do just about anything to put a smile on your face, especially for woman. He didn't like to see one down. I send my deepest sincere condolences and prayers out to his friends and family. He shined in my life even though it was for a brief time. He will be missed.

“ I am going to miss this man . He made me laugh, he made me think, he made me see things from a different perspective. Years ago, before the internet, I came across a riddle. The author' s claimed that in order to solve it, you would have to have at least an IQ score of genius. No one I read it to could solve it. When I mentioned it to Ann, she said, "Lets see if Bryan can solve it." He solved it within seconds. But it was his wit and humor that kept me laughing. He was so damn funny.

“ We were neighbors with the Burchyetts when Bryan was born. I remember him as a newborn laying contently in his bouncy chair taking life easy while Grandma Keys was in the kitchen working. We watched as he grew as a toddler to a very special little boy with a eagerness to learn and explore life. The Burchyetts were special neighbors to all of us. Please know you are in our thoughts and prayers at this time. Bryan has left us but only for a short time. We will see him again when he is without pain and surrounded by God's love.
