“ My mother was a sharing and caring person, she always tried to make her words and actions match. If she thought someone needed her she would have never told them " Can't you see I am busy - go home." To help people to change their status in life she always did what she could - Mom never thought that you could do to much, she was selfless. Once someone said that there was no way " that woman was that nice" but she was. Not once did I see her EVER be mean or rude even to those that deserved it.y parents truly loved each other. I truly was born with a silver spoon!
