“ When we were working on the Fay family tree, Bert and Edith along with Dorothy Moreland came to our house to help us with information that we needed. We had so much fun listening to those three talk about the "days gone by". There was some stories of childhood memories that we now wish we had taken notes about. All three of these people are now deceased but they will never be forgotten as their families grow and more memories are made. We thank the Lord that we had this short visit with these wonderful people.
