“ I really have no words to express my sympathy. All I can offer are prayers, and a reminder that God is with you always...
The Lord must've had an incredibly important job for Jacob in Heaven to have called him home so soon. It just doesn't seem real that he's gone. Only God knows why the time had to be now.
One of my favorite memories of Jacob (granted, it's been a while ago, but still...) is when he was showing me a new pet lizard. He brought it in the living room and said "See, isn't he cute?". The funny part was that he had the lizard less than an inch from my nose when he was showing me. So, I said, "Yeah, he's cute. But, I'm not feeling like giving him a kiss right now!" It was funny, & we both had a laugh, 'cause even he didn't realize he held it that close!
Oh my goodness--
He will be very missed. May all of you find peace and comfort in knowing that you are in God's arms.
God Bless,
Jess
