“ Was so saddened by this news. Shocked really. Nancy was so much fun to be around and it's just hard to imagine her not calling me every day on the telephone like she did. I can only hope that she is at peace now and no longer struggling to breathe. Thank you for allowing us to care for her during the time she lived here. It was our honor.

“ I am so sorry for your loss. Words cannot begin to express the pain that comes when we lose our loved ones in death. The promise that God gives us in Isaiah 25:8 can bring us much comfort in time of sadness as it reads that God "swallow up death forever and wipe away tears from all faces." In the very near future we have the hope of being reunited with our loved ones by means of a resurrection promised to us at Acts 24:15. Until that time, may your memories of Nancy help sustain your grief. May the "God of All Comfort" be with you in the days ahead. (2 Corinthians 1:3,4)
