Phyllis was my Gaurdian Angel, she took me in at the age if 13, I t seemed a though , when I needed any kind of support b, she was always there. She taught me so much about love. Before he opening he home to me, I had no clue as to how a real Family worked, she taught me how to except Love, she gave the best hugs in he world, she also knew how to balance love with discipline. I remember on time when I was about 14 she held me in her arms gently, but firmly, she said he was going to hold me until I would except her hugs, and her Love, I never cried such happy tears like that again, it was from that day forward that I understand what a true family does for one another, she has saved my life many, many times since I was 13.when something horrible happened to be in my life, she would somehow Always manage to be there. When my daughter passed away in a at accident, it was Phyllis that showed up at my front door, I would not have gotten through without her, she knew I was in shock, she helped me do all of the horrible things that have to be done to lay someone to rest. I'm crying as I write this, then there was the I'm ,just 7 months later when I was going through extreme treatments for making any melanoma, stage 4, I was laying in that hospital bed, dying, and Al of a sudden I look up and, it's my Phyllis, she cleaned me up and made me laugh. I'm convinced that I would have died that day without her. There are such a thing as Angels on Earth, and Phyllis was mine. Rest in Peace my dear Gaurdian Angel, I Love You, until we meet again Enjoy being with the Lord, you were 1 in a million, so very special. Thank You for saving me all those years ago.

“ Aunt Phyllis used to let us kids "drive" her car, by pushing the buttons on the Dodge. Some of my favorite memories, she was a practical joker , always had a smile and was happy to see all of us girls. Will never forget our dear aunt.

“ I would see Phyllis at the cozy kornor and always called her "beautiful" instead of Phyllis. What a sweet, kind lady. I will miss her. My sympathy to Wilbur and her children.
