“ Grandma Knows Best

*Grandma knows that her kisses can heal any wound.
Grandma knows that her hugs can warm the coldest soul.
She knows that her smile can light a room and the sound of her laughter can cure any ailment.
Grandma knows with just a touch of her hand she is able to comfort a broken heart.
Grandma knows that a few words of encouragement can calm any anxiety.
She also knows the value of just being silent and never passed any judgement, loving wholeheartedly and unconditionally.
There will never be anyone quite like my Grandma who always knows best.*

“ I am so saddened to hear of her death. It was always a pleasure to stop by and visit. I remember when you and Shirley stopped by before I moved to Wyoming. She was a grand lady. My sincerest sympathy to all.

“ One of the few things that I recall as a child, was my Aunt Shirley kissing my cheek and hugging me, and sleeping warmly feeling so loved in a blanket that she wrapped me in. I can't recall many things from my childhood, but I'm blessed to have a warm memory of a great lady. I will miss you dearly, and will be glad to see you in heaven.
